NUMBER 178.

YOU need the service we render in the matter of good clothes. It's a service nobody else can render you; because nobody else has

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

in this town; and we think nobody else has quite the same idea we have about the proper functions of a clothing store.

Our idea is to see that our customers get exactly what they ought to have; if you come here we'll try to show you what will be really best for you; the color, the style, the weave, the model that is best suited to your special case. We'll try not to think we know more about what you want than you do. But we do know something about styles, and best fabrics; and we can tell if a suit or overcoat looks right on you; fits properly; is becoming to you.

It's just as much to our interest as to yours to get you into the right thing. We can't be disinterested about these things; but we can't afford to let you go anywhere else for clothes when we know we've got the best clothes made.

CRUCE ON THE HOME STRETCH

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE GROWS IN POPULARITY EVERYWHERE.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 1.—The triumphant western tour of Lee Cruce last week served a double purpose. It permanently established the democratic nominee for governor in the minds and hearts of people as a sincere statesman of far more than ordinary ability and possessing no traits of the politician who seeks office merely for the honor of having it said he was the second governor of Oklahoma, it aroused the people, democrats and republicans alike, from an apparent lethargy and placed the intelligent and progressive west in a state of enthusiasm that will rebound many fold to the interest of the party and good government. When the votes are counted in Western Oklahoma it will be seen that few democrats remained away from the polls and that thousands of progressive republicans deserted the ranks of the Harris party.

So popular became the candidate in the west that leaders from four counties joined him at Lone Wolf and assured him that their people were awakened. The delegation from Jackson county declared their belief that the democratic ticket will beat a majority of 2,000 in that county. This means that hundreds of republicans will vote the democratic ticket. Greer county, Washita county, Kiowa county and Swanson county all made good reports. To those who are acquainted with such men as M. V. Meter and O. J. Logan of Mountain View, Richard A. Billups of Cordell, J. E. Hobart, Clyde Reed of Catoosa, R. E. Echols of Elk City, Senator Mitchell of Cheyenne, Tom Moore and Col. Chenworth of Altus, Dan Perry of Carnegie, J. L. Carpenter of Mangum, and others of their calibre in the west and southwest there is no element of hot air in their promises. They are men who do things, and they are doing greater things than ever in that section this year.

McNeals' Vulnerable Record.

No man ever ran for governor in the southwest had such a vulnerable public and private record as J. W. McNeal and Mr. Cruce last preached from that record as a text from the Panhandle city of Shattuck to the alfalfa fields that surround Altus. The people applauded it with the same fervor that they applauded his exploitation of good things that democracy has to offer. In that county they have to ship their coal 200 to 300 miles and their wheat, oats broom corn and alfalfa practically the same distance, and in the county traversed by Mr. Cruce the farmers and business men have within the last few months been robbed of hundreds of thousands of dollars in freight rates simply by the signing of McNeal's name to appeal bonds for railroads. The people were not slow to apprehend the character of a man Cruce was running against, nor were they backward in condemning his methods.

Charge is Baseless.

Only once in the campaign have the republicans sought to assail the character of Lee Cruce. McNeal charged him with having signed railroad bonds, and Mr. Cruce answered it with a denial accompanied by the proposition that he would withdraw from the race if McNeal could prove that Cruce at any time, anywhere under any conditions signed a bond for a railroad company. This was one time that the Harris machine got their candidate in deep water. The only other criticism of Cruce the republicans have made that is worth notice is based on the christian principle of loyalty. Because he was loyal to Governor Haskell and because he is supporting the Haskell administration they call him a tool. Some of the weazoned republican news papers, like the El Reno American, an organ of the railroads that is owned by the railroads, have carried day after day stock editorials saying Cruce is a tool of Haskell. No sensible man who knows Lee Cruce doubts for a minute that he will go into the office of governor without a string to his position, without having made a single involved promise to any man.

Lee Cruce is so far above the sordid, muck-raking principles of the Harris machine that he is hard to attack with any effect from any quarter. Stalwart, honest, conscientious, fearless, able, scrupulous, he stands before his audiences a veritable incarnation of righteous government, honorable dealing and elevated statesmanship. He will have a clean administration, and that is what the republicans fear. Their defeat this year means their everlasting defeat under good government.

No Unholy Alliances.

When Lee Cruce is governor he will have no unholy alliance with the railroads, the breweries, the book companies nor the oil companies. If an error is made in any part of the government, he like Woodrow Wilson, will make an immediate and thorough investigation and correct it. He won't have a dirty house. Corporations will get their just deserts and nothing more. Such a promise by McNeal, in the face of his railroad record, could not savor in the least of sincerity. It would fall flat on the surface and never penetrate the minds of honest thinking men.

When Lee Cruce is governor he will continue the advance of education in Oklahoma. This state now stands near the top in the nation as regards its educational system and facilities. It leads in agricultural education. Yet McNeal early in the campaign wrote letters to republican members of farmers institutes and advised them to remain away from county institute meetings because they were being run by democrats. Such letters were received in Craig county, and some republicans were so incensed that they declared on the spot that they would rather remain true to this great system of agricultural education and farm progress than to support any candidate for governor who for political purposes would abandon their field of endeavor.

Which School Please?

In nearly every speech in the state McNeal has condemned the Oklahoma system of education and 100,000 young men and women of the state would feel the ill results of his handiwork were he elected governor and

ATTORNEYS ARGUE GRANDFATHER CLAUSE

MANY QUESTIONS BROUGHT OUT IN HEARING BEFORE FEDERAL JUDGES.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 31.—Judge Walter Sanborn of St. Paul, member of the Civil Court of Appeals, and Judges Campbell and Cotter of the Eastern and Western Federal districts of Oklahoma heard preliminary arguments in the Simms case from Guthrie involving the constitutionality of the grandfather clause adopted at the polls on June 11. Simms alleged that he is an ex-slave, able to neither read nor write and, under law, which the state court has recently held to be valid, he would be barred from registering as a voter, and thereby would be deprived of his right of suffrage. The action is against P. R. Finch, election inspector of the Fourth Ward of the city of Guthrie.

Crowd in Court Room.

The small court room was crowded, practically one-half of the auditorium being negroes. Chairman of both political parties were also in attendance. The attorney general filed an objection to the hearing, raising the jurisdictional question and presenting the merits of the case, alleging that the action was one against the state without its consent, also that the fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution, under which the Simms case is brought, had never been ratified by a majority of the states, therefore, was not a part of the federal organic law. The objection further alleged that the state possessed the power to fix the qualifications of its own electors. Mr. Ledbetter for the defendant, filed a plea in abatement, alleging that the defendant had resigned as precinct inspector.

Attorneys for Simms objected to the Attorney General's filing for the reason that the state was not a party, also to the plea, since the showing was that no successor to the defendant had been appointed.

Without passing upon the issues, the court held that since the attorney general had been served with processes in the case he would be heard, and, in disposing of the plea, that if the cause of action was sustained, it would be enforceable against the defendant, his agents or successors.

Attorney General West gave the court three citations which he regarded as decisive of the issues in the Simms case. These were Williams against the state of Mississippi, 170 United States, which the supreme court relied upon as well as upon the Alabama case in determining the Atwater case a few days ago; Holt against Indiana Manufacturing company, 176 United States and the Giles against Harris. The latter case, he said, in presenting his argument as to the court's jurisdiction, held that political rights can not be maintained in suit at equity by injunction, which, he said, had also been the holding of Judge Campbell of the Eastern District in the state capital case (Coyle against Haskell).

Fourteenth Amendment. The Fourteenth Amendment, upon which attorneys for Simms relied, he said, was intended to give only civil and property rights and not political rights, and had so been decided, he said, by the supreme court of the United States. The attorney regarded the Mississippi case more nearly in point to the suit at bar, it having been required under that law that negroes not only read and write a section of the constitution, but understand it when read to them. In that case, wherein the Mississippi law was upheld by Justice McKenna of the Supreme Court, the court said that it was obvious that the persons aimed at were negroes and that the State of Mississippi had swept the field of expediency to restrict the suffrage of Africans, which the attorney said, was not a violation so long as it was not denied by the federal constitution, and, he said, the permission was expressly given by that document.

It was further held that the discrimination was only against the character of the negro race. It was necessary, he said, that the meaning of the law be given according to the state from which it came. The Oklahoma provision was essentially that of North Carolina, where free negroes were permitted to vote as late as 1835, but that in later years the educational qualification was imposed, and this had been upheld by the courts. The educational test, he said, had also been sustained in Wyoming and Massachusetts. Coming to the matter of discrimination, the attorney stated that wording of the Oklahoma provision, permitting those to vote who had the right of suffrage "under some form of government, prior to Jan. 1, 1866," would not permit indiscriminate voting by persons merely because they were white or indian. He referred to the supreme court's decision in the Atwater case, saying that blanket Indians did not have a form of government prior to the date mentioned, hence they would be required to qualify under the test the law as the negro, the restricted alien or the native white man who for some reason did not have the right of suffrage at that time; consequently, he said, it was not a question of previous condition of servitude, race or color, but a question of present competency.

As to the African's case, the Attorney general said, the cause preventing his ancestors from voting was as immaterial as though the test was one of the property qualification. The Oklahoma supreme court had pointed out that the Five Civilized Tribes of Indians had a form of government at the date mentioned which would not bring members of those tribes within the rule. Exclusion of the black man from the electorate under certain fixed conditions, the attorney said, had not started in the South, as was popularly understood, but began in the west.

Ohio and Michigan.

The first state to use the word "white" in its constitution was Ohio, and the second he said, was Michigan. Returning to the Fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution, upon which attorneys for Simms chiefly relied, the attorney general said that the most this court could do was to hold that the amendment gave the negro the right to vote for members of congress without undergoing the educational test. He stated that the Fifteenth Amendment could not in any way affect state elections.

W. A. Ledbetter argued to the court that the construction placed upon the amendment by the Oklahoma supreme court governed as to what the amendment meant under the federal constitution and cited a decision of the supreme court of the United States in support of his contention. In addition, the attorney pointed out that the state Supreme court had held the amendment was not a discrimination against the negro on account of his race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Judge C. B. Stuart told the court that the fact that a man was a citizen of the United States did not give him the right to vote. The right to vote was a state-given right, and he took issue with the attorney for the defendant that the right to confer the franchise of suffrage did not come to the state from the federal constitution. The supreme court had held, he said, that the federal government could not enforce an injunction such as Simms was asking for by putting its constabulary at every voting place in the state, and they have also held that courts can not enjoin the enforcement of a state statute simply because it is unconstitutional, for the reason the person injured has his remedy at law. He said that the decision of the state supreme court upon the question was conclusive.

Judge John H. Buford, another attorney for Simms, concluded the argument at the night session of the court.

HALLOWE'EN WITH THE NORMALITES

The Hallowe'en entertainment given by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. to the student body of the normal last evening was a thrilling success in every respect.

In the auditorium, the guests were told the history of Hallowe'en by Roy Etheridge, after which Miss Willie Faust gave the reading "Seeing Things at Night" and Miss Leone Stead played the "Witch's Dance." Prof. Briles told some real ghost stories which placed every one in the proper state of mind to meet a real live spook. Then every body repaired to the gymnasium, admirably suited for the abode of "hants," to see the spectres that had played the leading parts in the stories they had just heard.

As they wended their way to that room, of mysteries ever and anon they encountered strange awe inspiring beings the like of which had never been met before. These creatures of the spirit world seemed social enough, in fact, one was not admitted to the room of mystery without first shaking their icy hands. This hand shake alone was sufficient to put the last hair on your head straight up.

The gymnasium was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, pecan, persimons, pumpkins, corn stalk, mistletoe, and lighted with many a tiny candle and lantern. Here the fun began. Fortunes were told by a celebrated palmist who had just arrived from Oklahoma City. Apples were hung everywhere on strings and were found floating in pans of water. You could eat all you wished, but could not touch them with your hands.

Refreshments consisting of fruit punch and cakes were served. Hard cider could have been obtained, but that would not have been consistent with prohibition. Every where one went in the building strange sights and stranger noises could be heard.

The occasion was one of the most enjoyable of the year, all the better for having the element of danger(?) and the spirit of adventure in it.

A NOTED LECTURER COMING

The citizens of Ada will soon have the opportunity to hear one of the most talented men on the American stage. We refer to Dr. Thomas Barnett Terhune of Huntington, Ind., who taking advantage of his nearness to Oklahoma while touring Missouri, will spend a few days here with F. E. Bowman and other friends from the "hoosier state." On the 10th and 11th he will lecture on the subjects "The Fine Art of Living," and "The Old Book in the New Era." The proceeds of the lectures will go to the church.

He is highly recommended by numerous papers, Chautauqua boards, school men, and others competent to recognize talent when they meet it.

Cotton Receipts for the Season.

Up to 9 o'clock this morning there had been received at the county weigher's yard 5,895 bales of cotton. This with the receipts at the round bale gin puts the figures well on towards the 7,000 mark, a mark which will be passed before the week is over.

FIFTY YEARS OF PROGRESS.

As one reads the famous third chapter of Macaulay's "History of England," wherein he describes the condition of England in the period about which he commences to write, one is surprised at his revelations of the conditions which then existed and at the progress the country has since made, something of the same impression, though much greater in degree, comes to one who will cast his eye backward over the history of the United States for a period of only fifty years, to measure from that point the progress which this country has made in that time. The present census has much to reveal to a student of the growth of this country. From a population of only 31,000,000 we have now reached, with our insular possessions, a round 100,000,000. Our per capita national wealth is now $1,333, where it was only $514 fifty years ago. Our gold coinage is now about $100,000,000 a year, where it did not exceed $23,000,000 a year in 1860. We have $3,121,000,000 in circulation, as against only $435,000,000 in 1860.

There were then no national banks no loan and trust companies, where now we have 6,926 national banks with a paid-up capital approaching $1,000,000,000 and a surplus and undivided profit not much less than that amount; while there are nearly $3,- 000,000,000 deposited with the loan and trust companies throughout the country. The revenue of the nation fifty years ago was only $56,000,000, while it is now $600,000,000. We paid then in pensions $1,100,000; now the sum is $161,000,000,000. Our farms and farm property in 1860 were valued at $8,000,000,000 while last year the value exceeded $25,000,000,000.

In a few such abstract figures are represented some slight measure of the unparalleled growth of a nation such as the world has never seen in its history. There is buried within the driest-dust statistical review and endowment of energy, industry, inventiveness, and the capacity to know opportunities when they present themselves and to profit by seizing them, that, when interpreted and fully realized, spells out the splendid successes that have attended our national development of unprecedented commercial and industrial activities. It is this marvelous growth that in the kaleidoscopic and chameleon-like changes of the industrial and economic conditions in the United States have brought about a state of perplexity manifested alike by economist and politicians in their attempts to apply remedial legislation to conditions which far reasons which they themselves have not as yet been able to make quite clear, except in general terms, they feel, perhaps, instinctively, should not exist. But it is a condition in which generalizations will not do, especially when one recalls the statement of the witty Frenchman that "all generalizations are false, including this one."
—Washington Herald.

ARE YOU A BOLTER?

We do not think many democrats who went into the primary will be guilty of bolting the ticket that was nominated in August. The object of a primary is to centralize the vote of the party on one man for each office instead of leaving everything open to chance. No use in holding primaries if each voter feels free to go ahead and vote against any man who was honestly nominated.
In the recent primary there was no charge of fraud against any man nominated, so the entire democratic ticket deserves the solid support of the party in this county. We were always taught that when a man entered a primary he was under moral obligation to abide by the result, and we have had no reason to change our opinion. If a man does not enter it with that intention, it occurs to us that he should remain outside and then choose the men he desired to vote for when the final election came around.

Few teachers ever achieve fame and fewer still are even given the recognition their services deserve. When I say teacher I mean the real teacher and not the imitation. The work of the teacher is a great and responsible one. Just as the sculptor carves a beautiful statue out of a shapeless block of marble so the teacher as-sits the parent in bringing out the best qualities there are in the child and in rounding out his character.

Just as a careless stroke of the chisel in unskilled hands may utterly ruin a block of the finest marble, so the inferior teacher may mar the whole life of the child. No, the teacher seldom knows fame but in the success of his pupils he finds something of which he may feel proud. It affords him satisfaction and is in itself somewhat in the nature of a reward to realize that he has had a part in building such a character as may be developed in a pupil who climbs to the top of the ladder of fame. Give the teachers of your children all possible encouragement and co-operation, and you will be well rewarded in the increased interest and good work done by the children.

Some of the smaller European town of economical habits have been complaining because they are obliged to light their streets all night for the benefit of a few belated citizens, and have been trying to discover a method whereby the citizens who need to have his pathway lighted in the small hours of the night shall pay the costs himself. On one of the streets of a small German town, such a system has actually been put into operation. The street is a little over half a mile long, and is provided with nine lamps. At each end of the street is a penny-in-the-slot machine, and when ever anyone wishes to light up the street, he has merely to drop in a tenpenny piece, which turns on the current for twelve minutes. This allows him ample time to walk the length of the street. The street is normally lighted until 10 o'clock.
Thereafter the prepayment meter must be resorted to.—Scientific American.

In his harangue yesterday afternoon Stanley Clark is reported to have advised the socialists to go to the polls and cast a solid vote, and if the democrats steal the election this time just let it pass, but if they try it two years hence to invest in a few guns and get in after the rascals. To a stranger this might sound a trifle revolutionary, but to us Oklahomans who know the situation it is not at all alarming. Clark and other parasites of his kind are keeping the socialists so thoroughly cleaned out of their pocket change that not one of them will have the funds with which to buy even an air gun.

It is human nature for a very few to lead and a great many to follow.
This is the full explanation of the ease with which any man gets a following if he has the patience to stick to his preaching, whether in religion or politics. Plenty of men are just waiting for some one to do their thinking for them, and are happy ner.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

The low-grade powders are made from "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

One pound of the imitation (25c.) powders contains five ounces of alum, a mineral poison.

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged.

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia.
The careful housewife when buying baking powder, will examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows the powder to be made from cream of tartar.

Juror May Read Newspapers.

Washington, Oct. 31.—A man's constitutional rights are not necessarily violated because jurymen trying him on a charge of murder are allowed to separate and to read newspapers during the trial, it was held today by the supreme court of the United States. The court held similarly in regard to the refusal of a judge to send the jury out of the jury room during arguments on the admission of evidence.

Furthermore, the court laid down the rule that the act of requiring the accused to put on a coat, alleged to have been worn when the crime charged was committed, did not amount to "requiring the prisoner to testify against himself."

These points were made in the decision of the court in refusing to interfere with the sentence of life imprisonment imposed by the federal circuit court of Western Washington upon James H. Holt, on a charge of having murdered Henry E.
Johnson in Fort Worden barracks, Washington.

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE SALVES FAIL

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:
Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D.
D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25 cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief.

Bishop Collins Denny, of Nashville, Tenn., will preach at the First Methodist church tonight. A very cordial invitation is extended to the citizens and visitors in Ada to attend the service.

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people every-

Our city is one of the few in our state to be favored with a visit by Bishop Denny of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, on this itinerary he is making prior to the meeting of the Oklahoma Annual conference on the tenth of this month. Let us give him a welcome that will do our city credit, and let us not fail to hear the bishop's sermon at the First Methodist church this evening at 7:30.

Hallowe'en Celebrators.

We have heard no reports today of any real damage done last evening by the hallowe'en spooks, but quite a number of citizens had to do some hunting this morning to locate buggies, porch chairs and other moveable articles. A yard or two was filled with buggies, and some chairs were tied to the tops of telephone poles. A number of ghostly figures paraded around a little, and it is said that a few of the girls of the town insist that they saw the faces of their future husbands in the mirror just as the story books said they would.

Getting Election Supplies Ready.

A. L. Nettles and A. R. Sugg, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the county election board, are hard at work preparing the supplies for the election. Seventeen different items of the state supplies and three of the county must be placed in each box. As there are thirty-six boxes in the county this makes 720 packages of different kinds that must be sorted out and placed in the boxes. The board will begin sending out these supplies Thursday.

Cotton Pickers Coming In

The morning train brought in quite a number of cotton pickers from Texas. Cotton is nearly out in many places there and the high price paid for picking in Oklahoma is drawing the pickers this way.

More Alleged Census Frauds.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Director Durand of the Census Bureau is preparing a statement to be made public regarding alleged fraudulent census returns in Fort Smith, Ark., and Great Falls, Mont., which will be given out at an early date. The census bureau asserts that quite extensive irregularities have been discovered in both places. In Great Falls these have already led to convictions of three enumerators.

Oklahoma Certiorari Petition Denied.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The Oklahoma railroad cases must be tried in the circuit court of appeals. The United States supreme court today denied a petition for a writ of certiorari whereby the state of Oklahoma sought to bring the cases direct from the lower court to the supreme tribunal here. The 2c fare and maximum freight rate laws of Oklahoma are involved. These suits were brought before the new railroad law passed last winter became effective. Under the new law such cases may be appealed direct to the supreme court. In view of this change of law, the attorneys representing Oklahoma asked that the procedure in the circuit court of appeals be dispensed with. Attorney Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis presented the petition for certiorari.

Attorney General West said this action does not affect the merits of the case, but merely indicates the court would not take jurisdiction at this time.

W. T. Cox for Clerk of District Court.

When the editor of the News feels a little blue he always meanders his way to the office of W. T. Cox, our popular clerk of the district court. Uncle Billy always has something cheering to say that revives one's drooping spirits. He often gives us a good natured roast, too, but that is part of the game. Mr. Cox is the only Confederate veteran nominated at the last primary, but it was not on the record of half a century ago that he made either race for this office, but on his ability to properly perform the duties of his office. That he succeeded in pleasing the people of the county during his first term was well shown by the big majority rolled up for him in August, in the face of opposition from one of the strongest and most honorable men in the county. We have had strenuous times in Pontotoc county since he went into office, and the duties of the clerk have been many and heavy, but he is still holding down the job with all the vim and spirit of a three-year-old colt, for he is about the youngest man for his age we happen to know. His opponents will have to scratch their heads for a reason why he should be retired in November to make room for either of them.

MRS. M. C. WHITMORE RECEIVES SAD MESSAGE

This morning Mrs. M. C. Whitmore received tidings to the effect that her niece, Mrs. Joseph O'Pry Fountaine of Church Point, La., had been burned to death Saturday morning. It seems that she was sitting near the fire with her baby when her clothing caught fire. She was unable to extinguish the flames until she ran out into the yard and lay down in a horse trough, filled with water, but the fire had already done its work. This is the third death loss Mrs. Whitmore has suffered within nine months, the first being a sister-in-law and the other a brother.

Hendrix Appeal Case Is Set.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The supreme court today set the appeal of William Hendrix for argument on Nov. 28. Hendrix was indicted at Pauls Valley, Ok., in 1906 on the charge of killing Robert W. Voss, his wife's father, but the federal judge transferred the case to the jurisdiction of the United States district court for the eastern district of Texas.

Hendrix was found guilty and given a life sentence. The appeal attacks the jurisdiction of the court in Texas over the case, and also attacks the judge's ruling excluding the testimony of Hendrix's wife in his behalf. The appeal also cites an affidavit by a member of the jury, alleging that the jury did not know that a life penalty might be assessed on its verdict.

Suggests Special Exercises.

Guthrie, Ok., Oct. 31.—Rev. E. D. Cameron, state superintendent of Public Instruction, today issued a proclamation to county and city superintendents of schools, presidents of state educational institutions, school teachers, officers, students and all children of school age in the state, to hold special exercises on Friday, Nov. 4, to oppose the adoption at the polls, on Nov. 8 of the so-called local option and high license amendments to the state constitution as a substitute for state-wide prohibition.

carried out his campaign promises. Every large expenditure for educational progress since statehood has been condemned by McNeal and were he governor some of the state schools would have to go. Search for Ore Near Stillwell.
Stillwell, Okla., Oct. 30.—Machinery has been unloaded at a point some ten miles south of Stillwell and active operations have commenced for the drilling for lead and zinc. Prospectors state that the outlook is much better than that found at Joplin when the first prospecting was started there. It is stated that a thorough test will be made, and from present indications the find is a rich one and will be the means of adding greatly to this section.

An old settler stated to an Oklahoma correspondent that he remembers well when the Indians dug from a mine somewhere in this section, the lead and smelted their own bullets. Others tell the same story and it is the general thought among the pioneer settlers that somewhere in the mountains surrounding Stillwell lies a mine rich in ore and that has been partly developed in a very rude state.

The work is being done by a Joplin company and a heavy crew of men have been put on.

R. W. Simpson went to Kansas City this afternoon on a business trip.

The Size of Wedding Fees.

After you have known a clergyman for twenty years, perhaps you can induce him to talk freely about his marriage fees—not before. The subject is too complicated, too personal, too disappointing. When you have broken down the barriers of his reserve it is probable that he will tell you some highly entertaining stories. At least, you may find them so.

Large wedding fees are rare, even in New York. Fees of $50 and $100 are considered large. The $1,000 fee, when it makes its appearance, usually goes to the rector of a wealthy congregation who enjoys a salary of $10,000 or $12,000 a year. Larger fees are sometimes given. The man of wealth, actuated by a high regard for his pastor and friend, occasionally gives his check for $2,000 or $3,000 under the guise of a wedding fee. He wishes to help the minister, and knows the money would not be accepted under any other circumstances. Such gifts, it is needless to say, are extremely rare.—Frederic Walter Norcross in The Christian Herald.

Home for Our Governor.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 31.—The state capital commission announced Saturday acceptance of plans for an executive mansion that is to cost, $25,000. It will be two stories high and contain fourteen rooms. An avenue encircling five divisions of the ground plans, where buildings will be named in honor of the five civilized tribes, has been christened Sam Houston, after the hero of the Texas revolution.

Prof. J. Frank Lilly was a visitor to Superintendent Evans' Monday. He occupies the chair of modern languages in the Ada state normal and he is one of the best educators of this great state.—Ardmoreite.

Gruesome Mementoes

The king of Spain is said to possess a rather gruesome museum—nothing less than a collection of articles associated with attempts on his life. Included in the collection are the knife with which a man attempted to assassinate him when he was a boy, the skin of a horse that was killed by a bomb when the king was out driving in the streets of Paris, and some mementoes of the outrage at Madrid on the day of his majesty's wedding.

Too True

Baby John was not allowed to have pepper in his food, but seeing his father putting pepper on his roast beef, he hurriedly seized the pepper box and sprinkled it over his plate. "Mother," he said, "we eat everything with our mouth but pepper, and we eat that with our nose."—Bellevue.

Minnesota Editor's Scheme

Cheer up, my friends, I am hard at work on an invention that will bring you joy. I hope ere long to successfully cross a line grade of elastic rubber with a pumpkin pie, so that we can stretch our piece out to the limits of our imagination.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Contracting the World

The world is growing too small. One can go to Peking in a fortnight; an aeroplane service is to be run from Algiers to Timbuctoo and a wireless station is being installed on Cruce's Island. Farewell to mystery!—Paris Eclair.

House Plants

There is danger of giving house plants too much rather than too little water in winter. During the short days and long nights, with little sunshine on the soil, it is hard to keep the earth at a temperature in which the plants can grow vigorously. All the surplus water added lowers the temperature and retards growth.

Valuable Information

We heard on the street the other day of a man who claimed he was too poor to take his home paper, but all the same he read a notice in some other paper telling how to prevent a horse from slobbering, and sent $1.50 for the receipt. When the $1.50 worth of information came it said: "Teach your horse how to spit."—Exchange.

Spanish Aristocracy

There are 200 dukes, 900 marquises and thousands of counts in Spain, according to a recent count. Legitimate Spanish nobility, or, better, aristocracy, is called the grandezza, in English the grantees. It was instituted by Emperor Charles V. in 1520, so that Spain could be just like other countries in one respect.

In the Wrong Pew

At a Denver hotel a woman went into one of the telephone booths and sat down. It is not possible to get a telephone number from the booth—the girl at the board has to call it. The girl went to the booth. "Did you want a telephone number?" she asked of the woman. "No," replied the woman. "I'm just waiting for this elevator to go up."

Beer and Flowers in Germany

The Germans are a proverbially thirsty nation. This fact has just been strikingly illustrated in the farming out of the various departments of a new theater to be erected at Berlin. The rent for the refreshment department in this theater is $15,000 per annum, while that for the cloakrooms is $10,000, for the playbills, $2,500 and for the florist, $5,000. It has been ascertained that in a theater with 1,400 seats a thousand glasses of beer are sold on the average during each performance, but that the sale of sandwiches and other light refreshments is of no consequence. It is beer first and foremost that "pays the piper," and after the beer the flowers. This also is characteristic. — Montreal Standard.

Laundry Stamped for Identifying

In foreign countries some strange methods are adopted for identifying the contents of the washtub. In some parts of France linen is defaced with the whole name and address of the laundry stamped upon it, and an additional geometrical design to indicate the owner of the property. In Bavaria every patron of the washtub has a number stamped in large characters on his linen. In Bulgaria every laundry has a large number of stamps engraved with designs, and in Russia the laundries mark linen with threads worked in arrow shapes. In some Russian towns the police periodically issue regulation for laundries.

Egotistic Poet

There is a story told of a French poet who inquired of a friend and flatterer what he thought of his last work. "I have arrived at the fifteenth canto," he replied with enthusiasm, "and think there is no more beautiful and harmonious in the language." "Pardon me, there is one thing," said the poet. "Ah, perhaps you mean Chateaubriand's 'Atala'?" "Certainly not. I mean my sixteenth canto."

Meaning of "Clubman"

In the far spread New York of today the public takes less interest in the private affairs of the children of Vanity Fair than it used to do. And so it is elsewhere. You may see the splash in a pond; it is lost in the ocean which is a modern metropolis. Today the term "clubman" means nothing. In the days that are no more it was a definition that stood for something.—New York Evening Sun.

A Good Explanation

Speaking of bilingual stories: An Irishman serving in the French legion in Algiers, explaining to the court-martial how a slight altercation with the guard arose, said: "It was like this. I was returning through the line late when I heard the sentry say, 'Qui vive?' And knowing a bit of the language I said, 'Je.' 'Ou est votre lanterne,' said he. 'Il est sorti,' said I, knowing the idiom. 'Comment?' said he. 'Come on,' said I, and the fight was on."—New York Sun.

Marriage Causes Merriment

There was a novel equipage at a marriage at Calais (writes a correspondent), the bridegroom arriving in a gayly decorated coaster's barrow drawn by his best man, and his "second" pushing behind and a dog harnessed beneath. After the wedding the bride and bridegroom drove through the boulevards in this vehicle, the event creating a great deal of merriment.—London Daily Graphic.

Tattooed by Lightning

Herr Lehmann, a well-to-do farmer, was returning home to the village of Wilen (Canton Thurgovie) the other day, when in a thunderstorm he was struck by lightning. His hat, collar, suit and boots were burnt on the left side, while on the right he was untouched. Lehmann was found senseless, but soon recovered, and is fairly well now. Curiously enough it was found that his left side had been beautifully tattooed by the lightning, the skin being entirely covered with "prints" of oak, chestnut and fir leaves.

Too Literal

The latest arrival at the Bloomsbury boarding house was not so much annoyed as disappointed. "When," he said to his landlady, "you told me that you would provide me with board"—and here he pushed away his half-eaten steak and helped himself to prunes—"I was not aware that you meant it literally."—London Globe.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Ia., when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at Ramsey Drug Co.
